

Date: July 28, 2011
Job Title: Production Manager
Reports to: President
Pay Rate: Salary + Bonus
Pay Range: DOE

Production Manager

Obvius is a rapidly growing technology based company focused on the attainment of innovative products for gathering web-based energy information in commercial, industrial, and government facilities. As the demand and reach for our products increase, we are continuously seeking hard working and dedicated industry leading professionals. Obvius has a full time position opening for a Production Manager.

The Production Manager is responsible building the company's products and creating a world-class manufacturing environment. The Production Manager may also provide a support to external customers when required, with a focus on process efficiency and quality.

The Production Manager's responsibilities include:

1. Responsible for building company's products
2. Work with other managers in the organization to forecast and plan production schedules
3. Design and implement compensation plans consistent with delivering the company's financial goals
4. Manage operations to meet the company's goals for gross margin, product delivery (OTS) and quality
5. Manage material flow
6. Release new products into production
7. Provide training to production staff
8. Work with Production Support Engineer to manage documentation

Required experience & knowledge:

1. Minimum 5 years' experience in production management
2. Bachelor's degree in engineering, business (or equivalent experience)
3. Prefer background in energy information or building automation controls
4. Experience in lean manufacturing principles and techniques
5. Demonstrated success building a production team
6. High bandwidth individual, capable of managing multiple tasks and challenges to a successful conclusion
7. Focus on customer service
8. Proven success in a start-up environment
9. Entrepreneurial self-starter, motivated to win
10. Strong leader, committed to making decisions
11. Excellent written and verbal communication skills
12. Excellent teamwork skills

Please submit your resume to: careers@obvius.com